How the "Cat" Came Home

by Michael Yoh

Have you ever yearned to turn back the clock and relive some of the time that you spent with your parents and grandparents, and spend this time being attentive and interested in their experiences? Perhaps you would think to record these conversations. I certainly would like to be able to recapture some of the time that I spent with my grandfather and my father, for they are both deceased; and with their passing, much of what I could have learned from them is gone forever.

This is a story of a knife, and partially about the man who owned it. Because all of the essential characters are deceased, it is not a complete story, but one with gaps and questions. I wish that I had been more inquisitive and had more hunger for family history when the previous generations were alive and could share their experiences and knowledge.

My grandfather, Harry C. Yoh, was born in 1879 in Chambersburg, PA. His father (my great grandfather) was the chief dispatcher for the Cumberland Valley Railroad and a highly respected figure in his community. He had lost an arm and a leg in a train accident as a child, but overcame this disability. My grandfather followed in his father's footsteps, also working for the CVRR, and later for the Pennsylvania Railroad, as one of the chief telegraph operators. He lived with us from after his retirement in 1946 until he died in 1967. Being around him everyday, I knew my grandfather pretty well; and of course I heard many of the stories that he had to tell of his varied experiences. As is so with many young boys, I was too impatient and too interested in other things to gain more than a cursory knowledge of his past. When my grandfather died, I inherited his Illinois "Bunn Special" pocket watch, his telegraph equipment, old photos, documents and other materials. I have always appreciated these tangible memories of the past, and I hold them very dear.

It wasn't until ten years after his death that I was given perhaps the best memento that belonged to my grandfather. In 1976, I was recently married and living in an apartment in Chambersburg, when my mother called me and told me that a Mrs. Bowman was trying to reach me, as she had found out I was Harry Yoh's only grandson. When I contacted her, she asked if I could stop at her house for she had something to give me. I stopped the next afternoon, and she handed me a knife and a fascinating story. Her father, John Bowman, had worked with my grandfather on the railroad for many years as part of his four-man crew. Besides being a telegraph operator, my grandfather traveled with his crew troubleshooting telegraph related problems. Shortly before my grandfather retired, he broke a blade on his everyday carry knife, and Mr. Bowman offered to repair it. As often happens, the knife got set aside and was forgotten by both after they retired. Either Mr. Bowman told his daughter about the knife before he died or left a note with it asking her to return it to our family. Whichever the case, she took it upon herself to settle an old account and passed the knife to me. The knife, my grandfather's Bunn Special, and his telegraph key are under a glass dome on permanent display together on my roll top desk.

Wow, if this knife could only talk! It is a nice reverse dogleg jack pattern with ebony wood handles. I'm nearly positive it is a Cattaraugus, thus the title of this story. The master blade is stamped Cattaraugus with pattern # 22119 on the back. The secondary spey blade has the three-line Camillus stamping; and I believe this is the blade that was replaced, as it sits above the back spring when open. Though the master blade is very weak, and the back spring is depressed; this could simply be through wear.

In the Romance of Collecting by Mrs. Dewey P. Ferguson, Cattaraugus pattern #22119 is shown as in this illustration. There are some discrepancies however. The knife in the illustration is shown with stag handles; my grandfather's has wood. There is a propeller shield in the illustration where my grandfather's has a federal shield. Also, you will see in the illustration that the main clip blade is to the rear, where on mine it is to the front. Finally, mine is a reverse dogleg pattern, unlike the one in the illustration. Is it possible that both blades were replaced? They well could have been, as neither seems a perfect fit into the body of the knife. I doubt I'll ever know for sure. Cattaraugus pattern #22526 is a reverse dogleg jack with the federal shield and looks identical to my knife, except it is listed as being 3 7/16" long, where mine is 3 1/2" long. Perhaps the measurement in the illustration is off. If this was originally a #22526 pattern, then both blades must have been replaced. I know that there are often

No. 22119—3 1/2" Two Blades. Brass lined. Nickel Silver bolsters. Full polish. Stag handle. Shielded.

This Is Devoted to the Show

Donations:

Donations from you to our Club are one of the best ways we can attract our guests and visitors. These are awarded as door prizes or raffle prizes and go a long way in the support and growth of our cutlery show. So far we have had donations from: Terry Davis, Bob Patrick, Gaetan Beauchamp, Woody Woodcock, Bill Ruple, Browning Knives, Benchmade Knives, Mike Silvey, Frank Trzaska, Larry Davis, Gallery Hardwoods, Buck Knives, B&D Trading Company - Brigitte Rau, Camillus Cutlery, Emerson Knives, Texas Knifemaker's Supply, Atlanta Cutlery, Mother of Pearl, Columbia River Knife & Tool, Delta Z and Spyderco Knives, Ken McFall, K&G Finishing Supplies, Stan Fujisaka, Bowie Corporation and Imperial Schrade. Thank you for your support.

The OKCA Web Page can help:

The OKCA web page can help you with almost anything you might want to know about our organization or our Show. The FAQ page addresses any and all questions that might pop up when you can't sleep for thinking about the Show. Visit our page and tell your friends. You will be glad you did.

<http://www.oregonknifclub.org>

Demonstrations R Us:

We are going to have some awesome demonstrations this year, many centering around martial arts. Help our Show by talking these events up and also taking in a few. Remember there is lots to do at our Show. Martin Schempp will be doing a flint knapping demonstration on both days. Martin will be giving away the flint making project he works on at the Show. The drawing will be available only to those in attendance.

Hours and things to remember:

Hours for members and table holders are Friday from 10am until 8pm. Saturday from 7am until 6pm and Sunday from 8am until 3pm. Friday is a set up day so there are no rules on tables being set or not. However Saturday and Sunday are a different story. Tables will remain alive and well during public hours until the final bell rings at three o'clock on Sunday afternoon. Any who jump the gun might as well jump off the cutlery cliff as far as the OKCA is concerned. That means packing up too. Open for business is the rule.

The Saturday night social starts at 6pm and tickets are getting thin.

Smile: It is infectious and this is one infection you want:

The listing of table holders includes the names, company names and the International listings of our participants. 470 tables represent a real challenge to get around and say howdy to everyone. Make your mark on those that have a special meaning to you.

ATM & Espresso

It has taken many years it seems to have an ATM machine at our disposal at the Show. There is one now. If you are nervous about using one of these machines, may we suggest that you get a cup of espresso to steady your nerves and enjoy both. Last year we overwhelmed the espresso booth so with this warning I think we will see an improvement in the service. But like anything special, it still takes a few minutes and tender loving care to make this just right.

Silent Auction - different this year:

As with any event we have, we seem to have to grow into it to make it successful. The concept of the Silent Auction is good as it brings in revenue for the organization. We want this to be tailored to our Show; and although we got close last year, we will hit the mark this year. There will be several offerings for bidding at the Show on Saturday. These knives have been donated to the OKCA and represent some super fine offerings. The bidding will be submitted on slips of paper and will start Saturday morning at 9 am. The ending will be somewhere between 4 and 5. A person will come by and just shut the auction down without warning during this time.

So join in the fun and come bid on knives offered in our money making project.

Raffle:

The raffle will be held on Saturday, and we will be doing this a bit different too. Instead of having the drawings at one time, we will stagger them throughout the day. At least that is our plan now. And that is a firm maybe.

Please take note about the lodging:

The Valley River Inn is full up. We have added a list of other motels that might have rooms available. We have made arrangements with several for special rates that should prove affordable.

Membership cards, clips and badges:

Just one more time on the clarification of what you need when you get to the Show. If you are a table holder, your Show packet will contain your show badges. The Show packets will be at the front door when you arrive. The Show badges indicate you are a table holder and also tell where you hang your hat.

A membership card must be displayed by all others in order to gain entry on Friday. If that ole St. Bernard has eaten your clip, then you need to make a contribution to the Club for another at a token sum of one buck.

During non public hours the card or badge must be in plain view. This helps our security to monitor who is in the building. Being cute and covering your name tag is a no-no. Help us to help you.

We will not take applications for tables for the year 2002 Show until Friday morning at 10 am. Table holders will find an application form in their Show packet. Or you can get an application form on our web site. But don't send it in early, or we will return it.

Just because it's a member's day doesn't mean...

that you are safe from theft and nimble fingers of a devious nature. Light fingers coupled with lust are the worst enemy at our Show. You are responsible for your own table and the security of your wares. We try to help, but it is impossible to watch out for everyone. Space your knives out so you can watch them. Keep small objects in the rear under your close scrutiny. Watch out for the double team. Talk to your neighbor, but you need to keep your eyes on your table as well.

More than anything, I want no reports of stolen or lost merchandise at the Show. Please help me with this goal.

Our security force attempts to watch out for "nare do wells" but the main reason for our security people is that they are trained in first aid and working with people in crowd events.

The Grinding Contest

On Saturday we will be having our grinding contest. More than a contest, it is our way of showing our guests what it takes to make a knife. It is a live demonstration of sorts that really is a fun event. We will offer these knives for sale as another fund raiser for the Show. Table holders only. Let us know if we can put you on the list for the grind off.

The Saturday Night Social

We have slight few tickets left for the Saturday Night Social. If you were going to gamble on getting tickets at the Show it might not be possible. This is a great evening event and especially so considering our two guest speakers who are Houston Price and Wayne Goddard.

The Seek-re-tary Report

by elayne

The March meeting of the OKCA was held at the Mission Restaurant. Kim Morgan was our telephone caller for this event. Thank you, Kim.

The membership is currently 1002, and we have eight on the waiting list.

Red St Cry will not be available for the forging, but Jim Rodebaugh will have a forge at the south end of the building. There is an area which we will set aside for the grinding. We have the demonstrations scheduled. Most of which will be the same as those at the 2000 Show. Michael Kyle stated he has eight people for security, but everyone must remember that security starts with the table holder.

Bernard Levine has mailed letters to past contributors requesting door prizes and raffle prizes.

We have advised all members that no new memberships will be accepted at the door on Friday until 1:00 pm. If you have not renewed, do so now. Cards will be mailed to you. Your membership card or your table holder badge are the price for admission Friday of the Show. No card, no entry until after 1:00 pm. Please renew now.

The list continues to grow for the banquet. The maximum number of place settings is 200. We have sold 128 as of this meeting. (As of the Knewsletter we are now 170.)

Usually we do not have an April meeting, however it was moved and seconded that an April meeting be held.

See you at the April meeting.

OKCA Knews and Musings

Time to Check Your Mailing Label:

This Knewsletter is being mailed to current members, but also to those who have forgotten to send in their membership for the year 2001. You will be able to renew membership at the Show, but only after 1 pm on Friday. Send your dues in now so you won't miss out on anything.

The doors to the Show will open to members and table holders at 10 am Friday, and not a smidgeon earlier. Friday to me is the best of the three days because of the informality. There will be selling and trading on this day, but it will be focused on Club members and people with avid interests in cutlery. Friday has no agenda or requirements to table holders other than wearing an identifying membership card or a Show badge. The Show badges for table holders will be in your show packet which you will receive when you arrive. The candy is located at the OKCA Club table.

The contract you signed tells you what you need to be aware on Saturday & Sunday. A copy of the contract can be found on the web site should a St. Bernard have eaten your other copies.

of the people who attend, and the spirit in which the Show happens. Ours is a knife show fostered in the idea that we want to have a great and exciting time working with a tool that interests all of us: the edged cutting device. The artistic, the functional and the historical spur our interests. We gather together to share in this event and bring home treasures and knowledge and share in the enjoyment of good fellowship.

Ours is not a "trade" show, and we attempt to guide the Show away from the commercialism that could mark such an event. Ours is a non profit event where the money is funneled back into the group to perpetuate the happening and augment the "fun" aspect in which the spirit of this organization was formed. If your only goal is to make a profit and hawk your wares, then this might not be the event for you. If you want to have a great experience and a great time, then you can indeed do that.

The Opening Ceremony.....

Starting promptly at 8:45 on Saturday you will be mesmerized and entertained with the biggest secret of the Show. Get there before 8:30 so you can be ready to witness a fantastic event. The only request that I have is that when something unusual is coming down the aisle, please make room. Be prepared for this, the best of all opening ceremonies. At 9 am there will be a seminar in the meeting room so you might learn more about what you have seen. You who said that I couldn't beat last year's performance, wanna bet?

Table Holders - Unloading Your Vehicles at the Show

The East side of the building is the best place to unload your vehicle. There are doors on the north and south end on the east side. You may use hand trucks and dollies through this area. You can also load through the front entrances, but no hand trucks or rolling carts are allowed through the front entrances, as there are door jams that get destroyed when heavy wheels traverse them.

There is a drive in tunnel in the rear of the building which WILL NOT be open. Please do not attempt to use it and do not even ask.

Table Holders - Row Markers:

We have always had row markers to help identify the rows. Although one may think that these are an aid to identify locations of table holders, they really serve as a road map should there be a medical emergency. This year we have designed a row marker that hangs on the end of the tables that are located at the ends of the rows. For those with end tables, please do not cover this marker. If you think this will pose a problem, let me know now so I can move you.

The Meeting at the Mission:

When you come to the meeting on April 12, please park your vehicle in the back parking lot. When we storm the Mission, they have no room for their other customers to park. So if you can, use the lot in the far back where it is a pay for to park. But we don't have to pay.

Badges and cards

All visitors must display a membership card. All table holders must have a Show badge. Either of these identification devices will get you into the Show for free. If you have not renewed your membership, do it now. We will not allow new or renewal memberships until 1:00 pm Friday.

Door Prizes Are for Our Guests:

The door prizes that are so graciously given are meant for paid admissions to our Show. This is a powerful advertising tool for the donors and the Show. Members of the OKCA are not eligible for door prizes. However we will have a raffle on Saturday with which everyone can get involved.

Some Show Considerations

We do not have restrictions on "four foots" that come to our Show. We do ask that they be on a tight leash (to avoid trip wire effects), and that they be silent visitors. Any complaints will have to be dealt with. Your pet might enjoy being at the Show rather than stuck in the car or RV. Is OK if they know the rules. Noisy table holders will be asked to go to the time out box.

There are some that use silicone spray or silicone based chemicals to coat their knives while at the Show. Since the floor is concrete, just a trace of this on the floor makes it slippery and quite dangerous to walk on. Every year someone makes the floors a hazard with a spray. Do not do it to us this year. Such sprays or chemicals are forbidden.

Places to Stay and How to Get Here...

Since our Show hosts guests from out of the area, the motel and lodging issue has been a concern. We have listed some new locations that might help in your search for that home away from home.

If I Had Only Known Then

by Jim Taylor

Have you ever looked back at what you should have done? Have you then ever wanted to give yourself a good kick up the keister? Yes, me too!

Just today for example, I was leafing through an old knife book...what else! When the cold reality of my idiocy struck home. This book: The Custom Knife...II by J. D. Bates and J. H. Shippers, tells of the custom knife makers that were then (1974) making a name for themselves.

Let me just start with a couple of Oregonians. Trust me on this, you know them both well.

Maker A: A full time knife maker, even back then, was specializing in lock back folders and his prices started at $145.00 and went as high as $225.00! Wow, we're talking real money here.

Maker B: Also a full time knife maker, who was also making folders back then. His prices, though, were much more to my liking. They started at $35.00 and went as high as $150.00.

Have you figured out exactly who these two local artisans are? Allow me to help you out here. Maker A is Ron Lake! Maker B is Wayne Goddard!

"I'll take five dozen of each, Ron and Wayne." Yeah, right! I'm too late, of course. The chance was there, and I didn't see it. Did anything else catch my eye? You betcha.

Ted Dowell: $65.00 to $250.00

Henry Frank: $100.00 to $1,500.00. Didn't I recently see a Frank folder in A. G Russell's catalog priced at a little over $12,000? That's not a typo: Twelve Thousand Dollars!

George Herron: $175.00

D'Alton Holder: $45.00 and up. Don't you love it?

Jess Horn: $95.00 to $260.00

Joe Kious: $100.00 to $125.00

Bill Moran: "Around $300.00" each for decorative folders.

And it just goes on and on. What fools we all are! Furthermore, dear reader, this state of affairs is still happening! What do you suppose the prices will be like in 2026! Exactly!

I suppose that the old truism pertains here. It's never too late to start.

Mike & Barb's Corner

by Mike & Barb Kyle

The Oregon Knife Show is just around the corner folks, April 20, 2001 for members only. Saturday, April 21 9AM to 6PM open to public. Sunday, April 22 9AM to 3PM. The time will fly by, and it will be over before you know it. Make your plans to be here at this Show in Eugene, Oregon, April 2001. If you don't make it to this Show and you like knives, you will never forgive yourself. I would suggest that you take one extra day and really enjoy yourself, relax, you deserve it. You just might find that special knife you are looking for.

While we are on the subject of relaxing, how about the Oregon Coast. The weather this year has been very nice and warm. You can go to Florence, sixty miles west of Eugene, right on the Coast. You can find lots to do. Just walking on the beach is first on my

Include a spring toggle, or other thong keeper, to keep it attached to your wrist.

Amboyna Burl...or Is It?

By Larry Davis

Amboyna burl, Pterocarpus species, is the rarest and most expensive burl available. Color ranges from yellow-orange to dark wine red with the darker colors being more dense and heavy. The burls are small, but commonly high quality and free of defects. Amboyna is the trade name for burl wood of the Burmese or Andaman Padauk tree, so why call it Amboyna? Thought you'd never ask!!! Originally the burl was obtained from Ambon Island, an Indonesian island formerly known as Amboyna or Amboina and was referred to as "Ambon wood" in world trade.

"Amboyna" burl is now the accepted trade name for all burl wood harvested from the Indonesian and Asian Padauk trees, regardless of origin country and is imported from Cambodia, Laos and Thailand, also.

Amboyna Burl is one of knife and sword maker, Scott Slobodian's favorite handle and sheath woods. He says it belt sands nicely and can be brought to a high polish. His favorite finish over Amboyna burl is super glue (about 50 coats) which penetrates 1/8 inch into the wood and seals the piece off. Amboyna burl can be stabilized with good results and is available in that form, as well as natural form, from most handle material suppliers.

Gaetan Beauchamp

from Canada has donated a knife to the OKCA for our 2001 Show. The knife is the top one pictured with a scrimshaw art work of a Beaver. Someone will be lucky to walk away with this fine piece. The blade is ATS34 with 416 bolsters. The handle is Mammoth Ivory and the knife measures 7 1/2" in overall length. We thank you Gaetan for helping out the Oregon Knife Collectors Association with this fine knife. Gaetan Beauchamp can be found at table C07.

Bill Burke

from Salmon, Idaho enhanced this Western Bowie Knife for the Oregon Knife Show with this exquisite horn handle. This knife is one of 12 that will be awarded to the best displays at the Oregon Show. Bill Burke can be found at table S12.

Bill Ruple

from Charlotte Texas donated this exquisite custom made folder to the Oregon Knife Collectors for this Show. The work back springs must be seen to be appreciated. You can find Bill at table S08.

list. Florence has a few stores to look in for just about anything. If you travel north from Florence, it only gets better. All along the Oregon Coast there are great restaurants to stop at and get something to eat. It's worth checking it out. Barb and I go to the Coast whenever we can. Also, this time of the year has some real low tides, so you can observe the sea animals in the tide pools up close. And don't forget the lighthouses, Seal Lion Caves, the Newport Aquarium and the wonderful salt spray.

Eugene has some great places to eat and stay also. If you have a problem with where to go and eat while you are here at the Show, just look me up; I will direct you to the right spot. Barb and I have been trying to eat at different places while living here for the past six years. I think we have come up with some very good restaurants. One thing we have learned about Eugene, it has some very nice places to eat and stay at.

I don't have much to talk about in this Knewsletter because my mind is on the up and coming Show. Just think, 470 tables of knives, knives knives. Just think of the time that has been spent on making one special knife. The time that person spent on what kind of knife to make. How to shape it, what kind of steel and what kind of material to make the handle out of. I would say a lot of work, but I bet you the knife makers don't call it work. To them it's fun, and they enjoy making a special knife that shows their personality.

One more thing, they have so much going on at this Show. You must make it a point to get around and see something. Don't just stand there, get going and move around. Talk with someone. Go see something. You know what I mean, enjoy yourself and, above all, have fun. We will see you at the Show. Have a Hoppy Day.

Sales Can Make a Point

by ibdennis

I am often asked, "What do you do in the real world?" Well, if the truth be known, I don't "work" for a living, because I am a salesman. We won't go into the special arena (process control solutions for the industrial market) of the products sold; but we can safely assume that sales are an interest of mine.

There are few table holders at our Show who sell knives as a first line business; the majority of table holders are knife makers or collectors. Since I can't make a knife, and I couldn't survive on selling old knives; I would assume that the same road goes the other way round when it comes to sales.

Over the years I have been an observer at knife and gun shows and noticed that many of the table holders work on the premise that if the buyer comes and wants, then he will buy. Also if you happen to have just the right combination of the "I want it" items, then you will sell; things will sell themselves. But it ain't that simple, as many of you know. It sometimes is necessary to push the customer over the buying edge or add value to the item in question. How do you do that? How do you avoid the things that send a potential customer walking?

During and after the Show, the parts of your body that should really hurt should be your feet. The chairs behind a table have become a rest haven, but it can be a turn off to a customer. When I buy something, I like to look eye to eye at my seller. If a seller is comfortably seated in a chair, I feel guilty if I disturb him by engaging him in conversation. I like it when someone says "hello" to me first, then I feel that I am being acknowledged as a person, maybe a potential buyer.

When I ask a question about an item, I don't want the complete Gettysburg address thrown at me. (Get me outta here, feet!) I'm not really sure I care much about the trials and tribulations of the product and its making. I might even care less about the hardships of the craft or the difficulty it took to acquire an item. I am here at a Show looking for the items that give me pleasure. After all, I don't have enough time to see all the items on display

How do you feel when you go to a table and that person has an up attitude? Kinda infectious, isn't it. Wanna make someone have a bad day... grump at them or don't be friendly or caring.

Ask questions. Wait to volunteer solutions to someone's buying interests until you know what they are interested in. Questions are a form of listening. When a buyer gets to talk, they can talk themselves into buying. You need to ask what are the customer's interests, or do you like wood or pearl or folders or old knives or Remington or small knives or big knives or Bowies or taper tangs or Damascus or or or or catching on yet? Remember, flatter your customer, as they may indeed flatter you with a sale.

Trade shows are a wonderful way to gain exposure and capture the largest number of potential sales. Customers literally come to you. If you have built up a customer base, they will come to you first. If a knife is the expression of a maker, then your customer wants to get to know the maker better. This means more sales. Meeting a past customer again should be the highlight of your day. Could be the buyers, too. That person might want to invest in another one of your choice items. There is that attitude thing at work again. Remember that repeat customers are the foundation on which you can build.

The way to success has to be an up attitude. And, by the way, that is our mission in making the Oregon Knife Show a success.

uncataloged variations of many of the patterns of knives. I see this with the Red, White and Blue knives that I collect. Perhaps this was a variation of the #22119 done at the factory, and it is just the Camillus blade that was added. Or, is this possibly another brand knife body that received one Cattaraugus blade and one Camillus blade? It doesn't really matter; there is more to the story of this knife.

No. 22526—3 1/4" Two blades. Brass lined. Iron bolsters. Glaze finish. Ebony handle. Shielded.

What makes this knife even more special than its return after long absence is the carving on the handles. My grandfather, or perhaps Mr. Bowman, scratched the names of the four crewmembers into the handles: John, Ben, Harry and Ben. Of course, Harry was my grandfather, and John was Mr. Bowman. I remember seeing somewhere among his papers the names of his crew; and if I can ever relocate it, I will have the last names of the two Bens. I have been on a search for these names; and some day I will find them again, and a bit more of this story will come to light.

Indeed, just the writing of this article has motivated me to retreat to the attic and spend some meaningful time going through the boxes of old papers, articles, diaries, etc. that my grandfather accumulated and that I just could never get rid of. If only there could be a way to go back once again and sit down with my grandfather and listen to his stories, ask him questions and record his answers, I am now at the age that I could fully appreciate these. Perhaps as time goes on, I will be able to fill in more of the blanks in this story. I hope so. Whether or not I am able to, this knife will always hold a special place with me.

Oregon Knife Collectors Club Knife for 2001

Gerber's Air Frame™ is the finest, most innovative production knife available today. Designed by artist and custom knifemaker, William Harsey, the Air Frame™ boasts innovation in handle design, uses the finest materials available and is produced with flawless craftsmanship.

The Air Frame™ handle is the first of its kind. Being made of 6AL4V Titanium, Air Frame™ has an aggressive clip point blade made from 154CM stainless steel. The domestic equivalent of ATS-34, this U.S. made stainless steel takes and holds an edge better than the 440 series stainless steels. The blade is with a fine edge and is heat treated to 59-61c. This provides the best edge holding ability while maintaining flexibility and strength.

years. Harsey designed the Air Frame™ to not only be ruggedly functional, but to exhibit true artistic styling as well. It is this attention to aesthetics that separates William Harsey from other custom knife makers.

The Oregon Knife Collectors have been successful in getting 50 of these knives for our Club knife project for 2001. This could be the last batch of the titanium handle offering. Our knives will be serial numbered 1 - 50 and will have a special art work etch on the blade that will be an original work with our beaver theme. This art work will be done by Bill Harsey.

This is an exciting knife and should be a great investment and also a collectable investment. In addition this is a Club project that will benefit the OKCA.

Gerber's new Air Frame™ also has a titanium liner and pocket clip. All fastening hardware and pivot points are machined stainless steel. The overall length open is 8.875" with a 3.875 blade length. Weight is 4.90 oz.

The offering will be to Club members only, and at this time one to each member. Delivery will be at the April 2001 Show. If the knife needs to be shipped, please add $10 for shipping and handling.

The designer, William Harsey, has been designing and making custom knives for 20

The price of this unique one of a kind special OKCA Club Knife is $185.
